What is Biodegradable?

It's not just about the packaging, also the ingredients & formula.

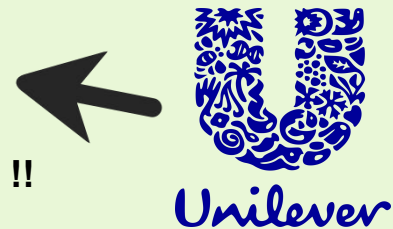

Recycled/Biodegradable plastic packaging

Formula: As per OECD 301/302 or equivalent methods.

Ingredients: From nature retain + 50% of their natural state after being processed, including water.

However, our goal is Ultimate Biodegradation !!

Why Biodegradable?

- Because of environmental issues and insufficient garbage capacity, the emphasis is now on recycling waste materials (Widiastuti, 2014).
- Biodegradability is an important parameter for characterizing the environmental impact of products released in the wastewater.
- Kind to planet. Break down into harmless, nontoxic elements.

Market value for biodegradable plastic packaging is very promising, and will be the next trend.

The issue now is to figure out how to solve the problem of high pricing.

Consumers are more likely to pay attention to sustainable products

- Consumers are most likely to pay more for reusable packaging and packaging made from new biodegradable materials, suggesting they recognise these packaging options as value-adds.
- Recycling services follow and consumers have no preference between online and in-store recycling.
- By comparison, refills have the lowest priority, with about a third of respondents willing to pay less for refills or an in-store/online refilling service than regular products. This means refills are still perceived as a value-for-money option.
